Maritime Delimitation in the Indian Ocean (Somalia v. Kenya)

Fixing of time-limit for the filing of Kenya's Counter-Memorial

THE HAGUE, 7 February 2017. By an Order dated 2 February 2017, the International Court of Justice (ICJ), the principal judicial organ of the United Nations, has fixed 18 December 2017 as the time-limit for the filing of the Counter-Memorial of the Republic of Kenya in the case concerning Maritime Delimitation in the Indian Ocean (Somalia v. Kenya).

This decision follows the Judgment delivered the same day, in which the Court found that it has jurisdiction to adjudicate upon the dispute between the Federal Republic of Somalia and the Republic of Kenya concerning maritime delimitation in the Indian Ocean and that Somalia's Application is admissible.

The subsequent procedure has been reserved for further decision.

History of the proceedings

The history of the proceedings can be found in the Annual Report of the Court for 2015-2016 (paras. 243-254) and in Press Releases Nos. 2016/15 of 26 May 2016 and 2017/5 of 2 February 2017, all of which are available on the Court's website (www.icj-cij.org).

The full text of the Order will be available shortly on the Court's website.

The International Court of Justice (ICJ) is the principal judicial organ of the United Nations. It was established by the United Nations Charter in June 1945 and began its activities in April 1946. The seat of the Court is at the Peace Palace in The Hague (Netherlands). Of the six principal organs of the United Nations, it is the only one not located in New York. The Court has a twofold role: first, to settle, in accordance with international law, legal disputes submitted to it by States (its judgments have binding force and are without appeal for the parties concerned); and, second, to give advisory opinions on legal questions referred to it by duly authorized United Nations organs and agencies of the system. The Court is composed of 15 judges elected for a nine-year term by the General Assembly and the Security Council of the United Nations. Independent of the United Nations Secretariat, it is assisted by a Registry, its own international secretariat, whose activities are both judicial and diplomatic, as well as administrative. The official languages of the Court are French and English. Also known as the “World Court”, it is the only court of a universal character with general jurisdiction.

The ICJ, a court open only to States for contentious proceedings, and to certain organs and institutions of the United Nations system for advisory proceedings, should not be confused with the other — mostly criminal — judicial institutions based in The Hague and adjacent areas, such as the International Criminal Tribunal for the former Yugoslavia (ICTY, an ad hoc court created by the Security Council), the International Criminal Court (ICC, the first permanent international criminal court, established by treaty, which does not belong to the United Nations system), the Special Tribunal for Lebanon (STL, an international judicial body with an independent legal personality, established by the United Nations Security Council upon the request of the Lebanese Government and composed of Lebanese and international judges), or the Permanent Court of Arbitration (PCA, an independent institution which assists in the establishment of arbitral tribunals and facilitates their work, in accordance with the Hague Convention of 1899).
